BECOME YOUR OWN STORY

No one has ever called me by my real name. They've only ever called me Bluey. I don't know where this strange nickname came from. The only clue I have comes from my grandfather, before he left. "Everyone's soul has a color. You are strong, constant. Harmonious. You are blue." He knew me.

The world around me is in turmoil. I won't adapt, I couldn't. I have to be myself. When the time came to travel, I knew more than those who came before me. I took with me the thousands of stories and voices that live in a library. I read, I dreamed, I learned, because I wanted to live all those feelings that cannot be contained in just one lifetime.

And now that I have left the trodden path, in my own new words I write and live my story. Constantly evolving and unique. I will not repeat what has already been seen and done. By others, for other eyes, for other lives.

My story is the way I fulfill my journey. It's the only way I appreciate life,
