BECOME YOUR OWN STORY

Let my inspiration flow, in token lines suggesting rhythm, that will not forsake me, fill my tale is told and done.

— Robert Hunter

Eclectic: adjective
/i'klektik/

Definition from the dictionary:

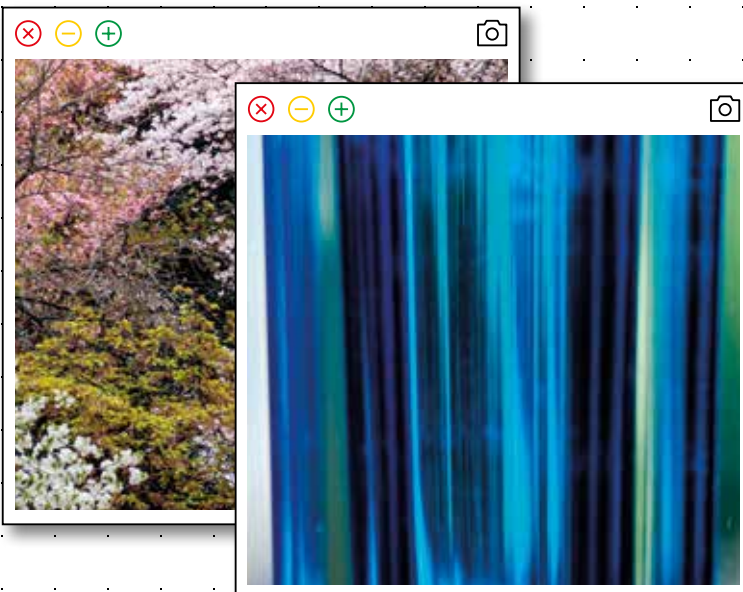

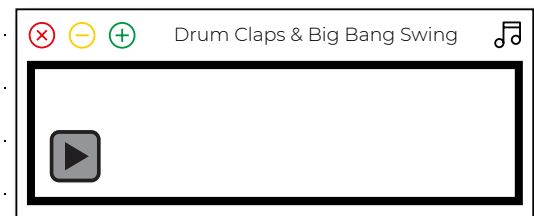

Not following a style or a set of ideas, but choosing or using a wide variety.

My definition:

I travel with my mind, and let myself be influenced.
I combine eras, stories and places, blurring borders and accentuating colors.

I let myself be pierced by the world as white light pierces through a prism, and like a prism I reflect the rainbow.

A blue rainbow:
my vision of the world.

Blue is the color of infinity.
It is the color of the sky we imagine as children.

Blue has no boundaries.

In music, light blue is like a flute, dark blue like a cello, and when still darker, it becomes a wonderful double bass. The deepest and most serene form of blue may be compared to the deep note of an organ.

Colors adapt to light, like man to change.

They say that intelligence is the ability to adapt to change.
And what about happiness? It is the ability to shape a change in which you can feel at ease.
